2. BASIS OF PRESENTATION

a) Statement of Compliance

These unaudited condensed consolidated interim financial statements of the Company have been prepared in accordance with International Financial Reporting Standards (“IFRS”) as issued by the International Accounting Standards Board (“IASB”) applicable to the preparation of interim financial statements, including IAS 34, Interim Financial Reporting.

The unaudited condensed consolidated interim financial statements were authorized for issue by the Board of Directors on February 8, 2017.

b) Basis of Consolidation

These unaudited condensed consolidated interim financial statements include the accounts of the Company and its wholly owned subsidiaries, Covalon Technologies Inc., COV Healthcare Innovations Corp., Covalon Medical Device Shanghai Co., Ltd., and Covalon Technologies (Europe) Limited and have been prepared using the acquisition method of consolidation. The assets and liabilities of the acquired companies are initially recorded at fair value at the date of acquisition. The results of operations of the acquired companies are included from the dates of acquisition. All significant intercompany transactions and balances have been eliminated on consolidation.

c) Basis of Measurement

The unaudited condensed consolidated interim financial statements have been prepared on a historical cost basis.

d) Functional and Presentation Currency

The determination of functional currency for each of the Company’s entities requires considerable judgment. The functional currency is determined based on the currency of the primary economic environment in which that entity operates. As the Company generates and expends cash in predominantly United States and Canadian currencies, management considers several factors, including: the currency in which it receives its various revenue streams and the magnitude of each; the currency in which it purchases materials and pays its employees; its other sources and uses of cash flows; and, the geographic environment influencing each of its consolidated entities and products. The parent company, Covalon Technologies Limited's, functional currency is Canadian dollars, and the Company's subsidiary Covalon Technologies (Europe) Limited maintains a functional current of the Pound Sterling dollar.

Effective October 1, 2016, the Company's subsidiaries Covalon Technologies Inc., and COV Healthcare Innovations Corp. changed their functional currency to United States dollars given the increasing prevalence of United States dollar-denominated activities. The change in functional currency from Canadian dollars to United States dollars is accounted for prospectively from October 1, 2016.

The results and financial position of the Company are translated into the Canadian dollar as follows:

- i) Assets and liabilities are translated at the closing rate at the date of the statement of financial position;
- ii) Income and expenses are translated at average exchange rates. The Company uses monthly average exchange rates due to the volume of transactions each month; and,
- iii) All resulting exchange differences are recognized in other comprehensive income.

These unaudited condensed consolidated interim financial statements are rounded to the nearest Canadian dollar (CAD $), unless otherwise indicated.

e) Critical Accounting Estimates and Judgments

The preparation of financial statements requires that management makes estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the consolidated financial statements, and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the reporting periods. Actual results could differ from estimates and such differences could be material.

The effect of a change in an accounting estimate is recognized prospectively by including it in comprehensive income in the period of the change, if the change affects that period only, or in the period of the change and future periods, if the change affects both. Areas involving the most critical judgments and estimates are:

- i) Impairment of non-financial assets – Note 4
- ii) Inventory allowance – Note 5
- iii) Allowance for doubtful accounts – Note 9
- iv) Foreign currency translation – Note 2(d)
- v) Revenue recognition – Note 3

3. REVENUE

Revenue is recognized on an accrual basis as follows:

- i) Revenue arising from product sales is recognized once the risks and rewards of ownership have passed to the customer. This occurs once the customer has received the product or once the product has been shipped to the customer if the Company arranges product shipment at the customers' request;
- ii) Revenue arising from licensing fees and royalties are recognized as earned under the contract terms. Where appropriate, payments are initially recorded as deferred revenue and recognized over the period of the relevant agreements; and
- iii) Revenue arising from long-term development and consulting contracts is recognized using the percentage of completion method based on milestones achieved.

In all cases, revenue is recognized only when the amounts are fixed or determinable and when the Company can be reasonably assured of collection.

Certain contracts may include terms regarding the timing of provision of goods or services and/or multiple deliverable elements and management is required to make significant judgements and estimates based on various assumptions including the timing of recognition of deliverables in satisfying the revenue recognition criteria as well as the relative fair value of each deliverable to which an allocation of the consideration is made.

4. INTANGIBLE ASSETS

Recognition and Amortization

Intangible assets include expenditures related to obtaining patents and technology rights associated with patents, trademarks, and computer software. Patents are amortized on a straight-line basis over the remaining life of the patent, being 20 years less the number of years since application for the patent and are stated at cost less accumulated amortization and impairment. Trademarks are considered to have an indefinite useful life and as such are recorded at cost less accumulated impairment. Computer software is amortized using the 20% diminishing balance basis. Amortization methods, useful lives, and residual values are reviewed at each reporting date and adjusted if appropriate. Expenditures on research activities, undertaken with the prospect of gaining new scientific or technical knowledge and understanding, are recognized in operations as incurred.

Development activities involve a plan or design for the production of new, or substantially improved, products and processes related to the Company's technology platforms. Development expenditures are capitalized only if the relevant IFRS criteria are met. Capitalized development expenditures are amortized from the beginning of commercial production and sales and are amortized on a straight-line basis over the remaining life of the related patent(s). Development expenditures not satisfying the above criteria are recognized in operations as incurred.

Impairment

Impairment tests on intangible assets with indefinite useful economic lives are undertaken annually at the financial year-end. Other non-financial assets, including property plant and equipment, computer software, patents, deferred development, and other definite life assets are subject to impairment tests whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that their carrying amount may not be recoverable. Where the carrying value of an asset exceeds its recoverable amount, which is the higher of value in use and fair value less costs to sell, the asset is written down accordingly. Where it is not possible to estimate the recoverable amount of an individual asset the impairment test is carried out on the asset's cash-generating unit, which is the lowest group of assets in which the asset belongs for which there are separately identifiable cash inflows that are largely independent of the cash inflows from other assets. An impairment loss is charged to operations.

8. PROPERTY, PLANT AND EQUIPMENTMeasurement

On initial recognition property, plant and equipment are valued at cost, being the purchase price and directly attributable cost of acquisition or construction required to bring the asset to the location and condition necessary to be capable of operating in the manner intended by the Company. When parts of an item of property, plant and equipment have different useful lives they are accounted for as separate items (major components) of property, plant and equipment. Property, plant and equipment is subsequently measured at cost less accumulated depreciation, and any accumulated impairment losses. See Note 4 for policy regarding impairment.

Depreciation

Depreciation methods, useful lives, and residual values are reviewed at each financial reporting date and adjusted if appropriate. Depreciation is recognized in operations and is calculated using the following annual rates:

Furniture and fixtures	20% diminishing balance basis
Lab equipment	20% diminishing balance basis
Leasehold improvements	20% straight-line

9. FINANCIAL RISK MANAGEMENT

The following is a discussion of market, credit, and liquidity risks and related mitigation strategies that have been identified. This is not an exhaustive list of all risks, nor will the mitigation strategies eliminate all risks listed.

Credit risk

The Company is exposed to credit risk associated with its trade receivables. The risk is reduced by having trade receivables insured or obtaining letters of credit when the Company determines that it is warranted. Management reviews the trade receivables at each reporting date and makes an allowance for doubtful accounts when the expected recovery could be less than the actual trade receivable. The expected recovery amount can vary from the actual cash received.

The accounts and other receivables are subject to normal industry risks in each geographic region in which the Company operates. The Company attempts to manage these risks by dealing with creditworthy customers; however, due to the limited number of potential customers in each market this is not always possible. As at December 31, 2017, ten customers accounted for 98% (2016 – ten customers for 93%) of the accounts receivable balance. These customers, who are distributors and strategic partners of the Company, represent substantially all of the Company's sales. Credit risk exposure is mitigated by strong credit granting policies, the use of Letters of Credit, and due diligence procedures for new customers. The Company has recorded an allowance for bad debts in the amount of $1,228,272 (September 2017 – $1,221,908) resulting in a bad debt expense of $NIL (2017 - $1,215,216). Management reviews the outstanding amounts on a regular basis and determines the collectability of the outstanding balances on a case by case basis.

Pursuant to their collective terms the accounts receivable, net, are aged as follows:

	December 31, 2017	September 30, 2017
Current	$ 2,183,190	$ 1,998,400
30-60 days past due	87,046	422,990
Over 60 days past due	781,047	327,771
Total (net of allowance for doubtful accounts of $1,228,272; Sep 2017 - $1,221,908)	$ 3,051,283	$ 2,749,161

Liquidity risk

The Company continually monitors working capital to ensure sufficient cash is available to meet operational and capital expenditure requirements. The Company has contractual obligations related to accounts payable and accrued liabilities that are due within a year. The future contractual commitments that the Company has are outlined in Note 15.

Interest rate risk

The Company is subject to interest rate risk on its cash and cash equivalents. The Company believes that interest rate risk is low as its cash and cash equivalents consists of low risks money market and fixed income securities with maturity dates of less than three months. This risk has not changed from the prior year.

Currency risk

The Company's US functional currency subsidiaries have suppliers and customers that do not transact in United States dollars, which gives rise to a risk that earnings and cash flows may be adversely affected by fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates. Part of the currency risk is mitigated by the fact that the company has both purchases and sales in Canadian dollars, creating a natural hedge. The Company believes the remaining risk is acceptable and does not use financial instruments to hedge these risks. This risk has not changed from the prior year.

Foreign currency balances recorded in Canadian dollars consist of the following:

	December 31, 2017	September 30, 2017
Accounts payable	$ (499,138)	$ (611,664)
Cash	125,742	209,819
Exchange rate ($CAD / $USD)	0.80	0.80
	$ (373,396)	$(401,845)

An increase of 5% and 10% in the United States dollar exchange rate would result in an increase in net income by approximately $(18,670) (2017 – $14,553) and $(37,340) (2017 – $29,107) respectively.

10. MANAGEMENT OF CAPITAL

21. STANDARDS, AMENDMENTS AND INTERPRETATIONS NOT YET EFFECTIVE

Certain pronouncements were issued by the IASB or the IFRS Interpretations Committee that are mandatory for accounting periods beginning after January 1, 2017 or later periods. None of these are expected to have a significant effect on the consolidated financial statements, except for the following standards and interpretations that have been issued but are not yet effective:

i) IFRS 9 - Financial Instruments

IFRS 9, Financial Instruments is part of the IASB's wider project to replace IAS 39 Financial Instruments: Recognition and Measurement. IFRS 9 retains but simplifies the mixed measurement model and establishes two primary measurement categories for financial assets: amortized cost and fair value. The basis of classification depends on the entity's business model and the contractual cash flow characteristics of the financial asset. The standard is effective for annual periods beginning on or after January 1, 2018. The Company expects the changes associated with the adoption of this standard to have a minimal impact on the financial statements.

ii) IFRS 15 - Revenue from Contracts with Customers

IFRS 15, Revenue from Contracts with Customers establish the principles that an entity shall apply to report useful information to users of financial statements about the nature, amount, timing, and uncertainty of revenue and cash flows arising from a contract with a customer. The standard is effective for annual periods beginning on or after January 1, 2018. The Company expects the changes associated with the adoption of this standard to have a minimal impact on the financial statements.

iii) IFRS 16 - Leases

IFRS 16, Leases specifies how to recognize, measure, present and disclose leases. It also provides a single lessee accounting model, requiring lessees to recognize assets and liabilities for all leases unless the lease term is 12 months or less or the underlying asset has a small value. Accounting for the lessor will remain substantially unchanged. The standard is effective for periods beginning on or after January 1, 2019, with earlier application permitted for companies that also apply IFRS 15, Revenue from Contracts with Customers. The Company is in the process of evaluating the impact of the new standard.

There are no other IFRSs or IFRIC interpretations that are not yet effective that would be expected to have a material impact on the Company.
